Have you ever helped people who needed a hand? Helping others in need is a kind of virtue. And there are so many ways that you can do for someone. For example, when you walk across the street, don't just walk so fast, slow down yours steps and look for the stumbling old people with a cane, maybe it's an opportunity for you to learn how to give someone a hand. You may feel amazingly happy to do so as well. Although the world has been changeable, there are still a lot of the underprivileged who are eager to be concerned about. All of us are citizens on this earth, so I think we shouldn't just be afraid of hassles and do nothing. We can't still stand there and pretend not to concern about them. Everyone must know, I believe, that sometimes being cool is not the right thing. Why don't we just be an open-minded person? Go ahead, and to help other people may bring you a lot of joy. Next time when you go to a convenience store to buy something, try to look for a donation box around the front desk, and put some pocket money in it. Suddenly you will smile because you are helping the disadvantaged!! Yes, keep trying to let yourself with a generosity mind and different viewpoints. Above all, you will find nothing can replace the happy feelings that favor your virtue to those in adversity. There is a proverb which goes “virtue is its own reward.”

In our daily life, there are many kinds of people who need our help. Some like Africans, from babies to adults, they are dead because of hunger, and they need our help to survive. In order to help them, many charities send the victims foods and clothing, even doctors from all parts of the world stayed in Africa to help the people who were sick. It is really generous and grateful of the doctors voluntarily to help those people in adversity, which is really something we can learn about.

We might not have the ability to do such things but we may also be able to help others in easy ways in our life. We can start from the easiest thing like helping our family do chores, for example, washing the dishes, making our own bed, and so on. The society also needs our help, like helping elders get across the streets, give our seats for pregnant women, and donate money to those in poverty. It may be easy to do the things above, but it really means a lot to the people in need.

To be true, helping others brings you the happiest feelings. If everyone can be so thoughtful enough to help the underprivileged, we may change the world and together we can make a better and peaceful earth.

What makes us a happy life? To be rich? To own the biggest and the most beautiful house in the world? To be a genius? Or maybe just to help people? Helping people is not just to help your friends, relatives or people you do know. It also means to help random people on the streets, in the bus or anywhere else. As our teachers and parents said, if one day, you see an elderly person, and he or she is going to walk across the street, you go forward and give him or her a hand. The purpose of doing this is that we give them a hand and make sure if they are safe getting across the street. On the other hand, if you are taking a bus, train or even HSR and see a pregnant woman comes up, we should all give up our seat and ask the woman to sit down as soon as possible. Now, if you don’t really take public transportations or get on the streets, you can just donate! We can easily find boxes around the table of a convenience store to donate our money to the underprivileged. Donation is just another kind of charity and virtue. After you have done anyone of those things or things like that, you will finally realize that helping people is virtuous and makes you feel fantastic. Enrich your life by helping others, and you will be a lot happier than how you feel about your life at present.

Helping people in your life is a good thing. Of course, do not only have done it once in your life. If we can, we should help people every day. It’s never too late to help others. No matter how old the people you want to help are. For example, we should help old men who want to walk across the streets with a stick. It is very dangerous for an old man to stumble across the zebra crossing If you take the bus crowded with people and there happen to be an old man or a pregnant woman just standing over there, you should give your seat to them, which is very courteous. If I can, I will donate money to the poor and the underprivileged. They really need help, and we don’t know how hard their life is. Anyway, it will be generous for us to help them.

I had an experience when I was a child, and I couldn’t forget it. When I was an eleven- year- old boy, I helped an old woman. The old woman went to a supermarket. She bought some fruit and vegetables. As she wanted to leave, she hurt her leg by accident. After I saw that, I ran to her and helped her. Unfortunately, she couldn’t go home by herself. So I decided to take a ride for her. She was very pleased and appreciated what I had done. Finally, she gave me an apple as a gift. It was awesome to help people, of course, not for an apple. In our life there are many people needing us help So how about showing our virtue and generosity to them, it sounds a good idea, doesn’t it?

Every time we help people, we will get a good feeling. Why? Because our kind-hearted behavior makes them feel so sweet and happy, and so do we. It is good for both of us, and we should do our best for that! In sum, do good to others as others do it. Let the society be peaceful and joyful.

Helping others brings you the happiest feelings. To a lot of people, helping others is a kind thing to do, but to some people, they think that in their own lives there are something more important than those who need help. The people in need for help usually want to pass through hard time, but it’s just not that good yet, so they need help from people or any places. Helping people means lots of thing, just like helping the old across the streets, or helping a pregnant person to do something she can’t get or do. I think that most people would do is absolutely helping the poor, like Bill Gates already gave a lot of money to the charity to those who need help. What about those rich people, they only keep their own money for themselves, seriously, that is a very selfish way to do.

I donated money before to those who lost their home and even their family from earthquakes like people in China, Haiti, and so on. Well, think about it this way, how about just taking 50 million people from all over the world and each person gives charity or any foundations a dollar. That will be a lot of money if it is in U.S. dollars. Anyway, donate money and seriously it was an awesome thing to do, and it makes me happy to help people. I actually gave a seat to a senior person who was caring a cure before, and that was awesome too. When I saw a teenager sitting there, there was elderly person standing right in front of him on the bus or any transportation thing. I really felt like beating that guy up because of his being a moron.

Sometimes people say that if you have power use power to help people, and if you have money, use the money to help those in need. If you have both power and money, choose one or use both of them. I don’t know if you know what NBA cares is, but I know. NBA is National Basketball Association, and NBA cares is every team in their state or places, help those who need help or children that have diseases and won’t live long. The NBA players use their power to help them, so the NBA or the teams use their money to help those people in need.

Helping people is a very generous thing to do and it makes you happy, and for those who haven’t helped a person in their life time, you got to try it. It might not be the best thing to do in your life, but it definitely will not be the worst thing to do in your life. Just do it!